Five-Star: We are right on track with our Five Star approval. We need to nail down a second community involvement event but we have options to choose from. There will be two more meetings before May. If there is anything that comes up with community service and learning involved, please let Linda and Amber know so that we can get this event. One of the better options would be having the older classes working with Mr. Diem's class as a service and learning activity. There could be a project using the gardens and we could donate the vegetables. The project has to be done enough so that the students could reflect on this. Sheila suggested maybe working with the Methodist church downtown for a food drive-we would have to find a standard to tie it to. Mrs. Waldrop suggested doing a dental hygiene activity for February-Jennifer Twine is going to a drive again. Mrs. Asselta suggested having a club next year. We are on track.

Title One update and AVID update: Mrs. Waldrop explained that before Christmas break, the AVID team did a self-study to evaluate our goals. We are in good shape with our AVID goals and program. Our next step will be identifying the evidences that prove where we are through our AVID OneNote to provide our rankings for students through a scale and also having our evidence placed on this OneNote.

Principal comments: Our information is submitted for our accreditation and it is complete for now. We will be bringing the faculty together to share with them what has been completed. The accreditation was backed up by evidences and a survey was used. There were teachers involved in the accreditation process: Erin Glennon, Sarah Blevins, Molly Jackson, Kathleen Hunting, and Cindy Smeland. iReady testing has continued. PMA scores will be evaluated based on the writing test and we will evaluate teachers next steps.

Extended day coordinator interviews are underway as Betty Masse is retiring in January. Gearing up for Literacy Week and the STEM fair on the 23rd led by Erin Glennon and Emily Blum and the 5th grade team. The spelling bee is next Wednesday. Melia Baker is our representative and Ms. Marquez and Mrs. Waldrop will be going for support.
